Best Practice #1

Title: Nitte Special Child Care Project (N-SPECC)

Objective: To identify groups of children with special health care needs and to provide comprehensive dental and medical health care to them.

Context: Children with special health care needs are those whose psychological development and social expression, play and/ or work is compromised due to a physical/mental problem/both.

Every child with a compromised condition/disability has the right to attain treatment at par with the healthy ones. Their disability should not be considered as discrimination towards providing sound and effective treatment.

The Practice: The N-SPECC (Nitte Special Child Care) Programme is an initiative of the dental college and the District Department of Education of the Government of Karnataka, viz., with Sarva Shiksha Abhiyana. This centre was set up to regularise, monitor and develop a plan to provide comprehensive medical and dental care to children with special health care needs. The N-SPECC centre aims to provide a comprehensive treatment to these children which will include all preventive, corrective and rehabilitation measures

Evidence of success: In the last six months, about 370 children were treated at N-SPECC. There has been more awareness about ailments and diseases affecting the health of the child, among the parents and guardians, which otherwise in many cases would have not been known. About 40 audiograms and many other surgeries have been conducted by the Departments of Orthopaedics and Ophthalmology.

Difficulties encountered: One of the primary problems encountered in this regard is obtaining the necessary support from the various Government organisations. These children require more specific investigative procedures which cannot be carried out without sufficient funding. The unavailability of a corpus fund makes it difficult for the patients to obtain any emergency treatment. The University is providing partial financial support.

Resources required: Resources are required primarily in the form of funding to cater to the investigative and treatment needs of the children as well as for the infrastructure that is required to set up the centre.

Best Practice #2

Title: Performance- based appraisal Scheme for Career Advancement

Objective:

- To develop a system to assess the performance of the faculty for promotions, increments and incentives.
- The score of PBAS will be one of the four parameters for CAS, other parameters being qualification, experience and vacancy.
- The appraisal scheme is introduced to encourage continuous 1 professional growth, identify both strengths and weakness among faculty and suggest remedies for the deficient, reward the outstanding faculty and to ensure accountability.
- The effective implementation of the scheme depends on the specific and measurable parameters, realistic and attainable goals, meticulous documentations, continuous evaluation and adherence to the time frame all of which have been addressed in the scheme.

The Context: Successful implementation of the scheme warrants a thorough understanding of the issues involved in such appraisal by all the stake holders. There was a need to develop a system which is quantifiable to avoid bias, attainable and realistic keeping in mind different cadre of faculty. The faculty were sensitized to the scheme through a series of discussions and presentations.

The Practice: The scheme has been framed in the lines of CAS proposed by the UGC. The appraisal is made on four parameters.

- Teaching learning, examination results, student feedback
- Research and publications
- Extracurricular activities
- In-house activities

Teaching learning, student feedback, examination results: The assessment is based on the classes conducted which are monitored through the Chaitanya software. On the basis of the percentage of classes conducted, the API scores allotted.

The outcome of the academic program delivery is assessed on the basis of the pass percentage of the students. On the basis of the pass percentage of students in different divisions, the API scores are allotted to a faculty.

An elaborate three tier appraisal system has been developed based on the annual feedback from the students, appraisal by the HoDs and self- appraisal. The feedback is taken on a questionnaire and the scores are quantified. These scores are communicated to the faculty concerned which will state the areas of his/her strength and weakness.

Research and publications: The scheme assesses the performance of the faculty in the area of research and scientific publications. The scoring is cadre sensitive and higher scores are mandated for the teachers of higher cadre. One third of the total credit is given for research and publications.

Extracurricular activities: These activities involve student related co-curricular, extension and field-based activities including extension activities, cultural activities, subject- related events, student monitoring and counselling, and institutional committees- related matters.

Faculty involvement in corporate life and management of the department and institution through participation in academic and administrative committees and responsibilities is also assessed.

In house activities: Due weightage is given to the participation of faculty in the activities of the institution such as students' council day, sports activities, cultural activities etc.

Evidence of Success: The assessment of the faculty performance with clearly defined parameters has resulted in identifying the areas of strengths and limitations of the faculty which has enabled us to assign the tasks to the teachers on the basis of their aptitude. For example, a teacher with a flair for organising events has been given the responsibility of coordinating student activities and so on.

The analysis of the feedback from students has helped the faculty to identify the areas of weakness and they could actively engage in addressing those limitations. A definite improvement in several areas has been observed.

Problems encountered

- Sensitizing the faculty to the concept
- Preparing the scheme which is precise, measurable and free of bias
- Analysis of the data generated. At present it is done manually which is laborious and time consuming. Operations are yet to be computerized.

Resources required

- A dedicated cell to collect, and analyse the information required to introduce in all departments and the institutions of the university.
- Independent body to assess the performance
